Died: 2 October 1892

WIFE OF JOHN RIGBY MURRAY

Ebie MURRAY

This memorial to a lady named EBIE MURRAY is a little unique. It bears her name and a reference to her husband appears at the side of the plinth but nothing else - no places or dates for her. Furthermore, a search through the parish records found nothing recording her death. So, who precisely was she? The name EBIE does not appear anywhere, nor does the name of her husband. (Plot C63)

She was, in fact, ELIZABETH GRAY. Sadly, since she was born in Australia, little can be found of her early life. Furthermore, it has proved difficult to identify accurately her father, Charles Gray, Esq. Hence, any information found has been piecemeal. The reference to her husband, who is not buried here, reads:

Also In Devoted Memory of JOHN RIGBY MURRAY Born 13 March 1857 Died 13 January 1946 "Let thy loving spirit lead me forth into the land of righteousness".

The Birth Index, 1837-1917, for the State of Victoria, Australia, shows that Elizabeth Gray was born in 1863. Her father was Charles Gray and her mother's name was Elizabeth Sharp, and that she was born in Queenscliff. Her parents had married in 1857 in Victoria. (I) It would appear that Elizabeth had a sister Annie (1858-1943) who was born in Portland, Victoria.

*ROWE. On Dec. 15, 1943, in London, ANNIE, widow of Charles James Rowe and dear mother of Felix Rowe, Surrey Lodge, Henley-on-Thames, and eldest daughter of the late Charles and Elizabeth Gray, of Victoria, Australia, aged 85 years. Her will was proved at Llandudno on 22 January 1944, her address being given as the Norfolk Hotel, Kensington, and her effects were left to her son Felix Charles Rowe, squadron leader, R.A.F.V.R. Felix was born on 24 January 1886, baptised at Emperor's Gate Presbyterian Church, Kensington, and his father Charles James was recorded as a merchant.

(II) She also had a second older sister, Emily. She was born in Caramut, Victoria, in 1860.

It was the largest gathering the Institute had held, with over 1,400 guests.

The Morning Post for Wednesday 30 March 1881 carried a Court Report:

The Court Circular contains the following: Her Majesty the Queen held a Drawing Room at Buckingham Palace yesterday afternoon. ... The Queen, accompanied by Princess Beatrice and the other members of the Royal Family, entered the Throne Room shortly after three o'clock. ... The following presentations to the Queen were made, the names having previously been left at the Lord Chamberlain's office and submitted for her Majesty's approval: ... Miss Emily Gray by her mother, Mrs. Charles Gray, and Miss Ebie Gray, by her mother, Mrs. Charles Gray.

The South London Press on Saturday 13 November 1886 printed a report on a musical evening, which clearly showed a talent for singing:

BAUMANN HABITATION. On Thursday evening a concert to celebrate the first return of Mr. A. A. Baumann to represent Peckham in Parliament was given in St. Mary's College, under the auspices of the habitation of the Primrose League bearing the name of the hon. gentleman. Miss Gray responded to an encore for an exceedingly attractive rendition of "Bid me good-bye".

This talent of hers was further highlighted in an advertisement printed on Wednesday 29 December 1886 in the Morning Post, featuring a concert to be given on 5 January in the Lyric Club, New Bond Street, in aid of the winter charities of St. Luke's, Camberwell. A number of artistes kindly volunteered their services and tickets could be obtained from the vicar, or from Miss Ebie Gray, 40 Gloucester Place, Hyde Park.

Parton Row is the name of the cottages rebuilt in 1901 by the laird, Benjamin Rigby Murray, of Parton House. One was used as a library and reading room. The clock tower was added to an existing byre but later converted to a communal laundry. In later years the building nearest the hall was the village shop and post office and was the home of Sam Callander (1922 - 2012), who devoted much of his life to promoting the memory of James Clerk Maxwell.

Murray also built the village hall in 1908 with the motto over the entrance "Floreat Partona".

Along with James senior, his brother Benjamin Rigby Murray (1823-1901) inherited the A & G Murray cotton business after their father George died in 1855.

The cotton-spinning mill of A & G Murray is one of the most important surviving steam-powered cotton mills in the world. It was established in the Ancoats area of Manchester during the final years of the 18th century, and was amongst the first cotton mills ever to have been designed specifically to house steam-powered spinning mules, providing a new and powerful dimension to factory-based textile manufacture. The book A and G Murray and the Cotton Mills of Ancoats, by I. Miller (2007) details the comprehensive survey of the mill and the remarkable, but little studied, industrial townscape of Ancoats, and is presented for both specialists and general readers.

Murrays' Mills is a complex of former cotton mills on land between Jersey Street and the Rochdale Canal in the district of Ancoats, Manchester, England. The mills were built for brothers Adam and George Murray. Many of the buildings have been restored today.
