The Leigh Chronicle for Saturday 9 June 1860 reported:

Promotions in the 55th Volunteers. —The recent additions to the 55th (Leigh) corps have increased the number to more than form company, and therefore the appointment of captain was rendered imperative by the regulations. On Wednesday evening the Volunteers met in the Town Hall and unanimously elected Lieut. George Edward Jee, to be Captain; Ensign Henry Kirkpatrick, to be Lieutenant; and Mr. James Bayley Knott to be Ensign. Consequent upon these promotions some changes will shortly take place among the non-commissioned officers

The London Gazette for 15 July 1862 gave the following pronouncement:

NOTICE is hereby given, that the Partnership heretofore subsisting between James Bayley and James Knott, carrying on business at Tyldesley, in the county of Lancaster, as Cotton Spinners and Manufacturers, under the firm of James Bayley and Knott, was determined on the 9th day of April last by the death of the said James Bayley.

Dated the 9th day of July, 1862.

Maria Bayley,

James Knott,

Executrix and Executor under the Will of the said James Bayley, deceased.

The Leigh Chronicle on Saturday 12 March 1864 made the following announcement:

'The Gazette' of the 8th instant contains the following notification: — 4th Administrative Battalion, Lancashire Rifle Volunteers. — James Bayley Knott, gentleman, to be Honorary Quarter Master. Dated 16th February, 1864.

Then, in 1868, James Bayley Knott married Mary Rasbotham on 8 January at St. Mark's. Mary was the third child of Peter and Rebecca Rasbotham. He was Private Secretary/Comptroller to the Earl of Ellesmere. The family was living at Mill Brow, Worsley. Sadly, he died just 3 years after Mary's marriage. A stained glass window in the church was installed by the children of Peter in his memory.

The Yorkshire Post and Leeds Intelligencer, on 11 January 1868, reported:

On 8 January 1868, aged 26, at St Mark's Church, Worsley, also now in Greater Manchester, he married Mary Rasbotham. James Bayley, son of James Knott, of Clarendon House, Cheetham Hill, Manchester [married] Mary, elder daughter of Peter Rasbotham, of Highfield House, Worsley.

On his marriage certificate above he described himself as a 'Cotton Spinner,' though when he had served on a jury at Kirkdale Assizes in 1865 his profession had been reported as 'cotton manufacturer' (Liverpool Mercury, 19 January 1865).

Then, in 1872, his father James died, aged 74, leaving his son James Bayley as a beneficiary.

KNOTT James.

24 August. The Will with a Codicil of James Knott late of Crumpsall near Manchester in the County of Lancaster Cotton Spinner who died 7 August 1872 at Harrogate in the West Riding of the County of York was proved at Manchester by James Bayley Knott of Chaddock Hall Tyldesley in the County of Lancaster Cotton Spinner the Son and Elizabeth Jane Knott of Clarendon House Crumpsall Spinster the Daughter two of the surviving Executors.

Captain James Bayley Knott died at Chaddock Hall on 14 May 1877, aged only 36.

The Manchester Courier and Lancashire General Advertiser, on 15 May 1877, reported:

On Monday morning Mr J. B. Knott, Chaddock Hall, Tyldesley, died at his residence, after a few days illness, from congestion of the lungs. He was captain of the 55th L. R. V., Atherton, head of the firm of Bayley and Knott, cotton spinners, Tyldesley, and vice-president of the Astley and Tyldesley Conservative Association. He was at the batallion drill at Worsley, on Saturday week, and his sudden death is much regretted in the Tyldesley district'.

Although he had indeed joined the 55th Lancashire Rifle Volunteers as an Ensign in 1860, he had later been the Captain of the 60th Lancashire Rifle Volunteers.

According to the Bolton News of 14 May 1877, he was 'much esteemed by all sections of his townsmen. [...] The demise of the deceased has cut short the promise of a long and honourable career, death taking place at an early age'.

KNOTT James Bayley.

Effects under £45,000.

29 June. Administration of the effects of James Bayley Knott late of Chaddock Hall Tyldesley in the County of Lancaster Cotton Spinner who died 14 May 1877 at Chaddock Hall was granted at Liverpool to Mary Knott of Chaddock Hall Widow the Relict.

On Saturday 19 May 1877, the Leigh Journal carried a brief report on his funeral:

THE FUNERAL

The funeral took place yesterday (Friday) at noon at St. Mark's Church, Worsley, amid many tokens of respect from the large number of spectators who had assembled. The cortège left Chaddock Hall soon after eleven o'clock in the following order:

HEARSE AND PAIR

(without plumes)

Family carriage: Mrs. Knott and Mr. Spencer

Second carriage: Mr. and Mrs. Guest and Miss Mott

Third carriage: Mrs. Whyatt, Mrs. Hutchinson, Rec. C. Bayley and Mr. Ormerod

Fourth Carriage: Mr. T. Speakman (cashier), Mr. J. Atherton (bookkeeper), and Mr. H.

Hibbert (mill manager)

The volunteers of the 60th L.R.V., of which the deceased gentleman was Captain, with the officers of the battalion, assembled near Worsley Old Hall, and preceded the hearse to the church, where it was awaited by many of the villagers. The Rev. the Earl of Mulgrave was the officiating clergyman, and the service throughout was most solemn and impressive, military honours befitting the rank and character of the deceased being observed. The coffin was composed of an oak shell and lead, enclosed in an outer oakpolished coffin, mounted with a rich brass furniture and brass plate with the following inscription:

JAMES BAYLEY KNOTT, Died 14th May, 1877, Aged 36 years

The mill at Tyldesley was stopped for the day.

French-born Camille Silvy (1834-1910) established his photographic portrait studio at 38 Porchester Terrace in London's Bayswater in 1859, operating at the height of the carte-devisite craze (popularly nicknamed 'cartomania') in the early 1860s, and remained there until 1869. During that time, he welcomed thousands of sitters and gained a reputation for his skilfully composed and finely produced photographs.

The Burning of Resolution Mills, September 26, 1891

By 1853 James Bayley and James Knott had acquired control of Kearsley's Mills, the Resolution group. Bayley lived at Fulwell and was a magistrate. His wife's name was Ann. He died April 9, 1862. Bayley lived at Fulwell and was a magistrate. His wife's, and his partner, Knott, died at Harrogate ten years later. Knott was then living at Cheetham Hill. In 1888 the children of James Bayley built the chancel and choir stalls as a memorial to him and his wife, who are buried in the churchyard. The firm still went by the name of Bayley and Knott, but sometime after 1880 Caleb Wright took directive control. On September 26, 1891—Wakes Saturday— Resolution Mills were burned to the ground. James Pasquill, an overlooker, first discovered the fire. The brigades from Tyldesley, Leigh, and Bolton rushed to put out the blaze but failed. The damage was estimated at some £30,000. This severe loss caused Caleb Wright to establish a fire service of his own for use on the premises, in case of further outbreak.
